Quick tips + information

1. New Prospects Only?

- This toggle is asking if you want to send this outreach to a prospect who has never received an email from you out of this service before. If you want to only email new names each time, then choose "yes"; if you want to outreach to names you've emailed before, this should be switched to "no."

2. Suppression Lists

- You'll want to use this feature if you're sending graduate or transfer student outreaches. By uploading emails of current students in your system here, you are ensuring you are not using your credits for names you already own.
- It's also helpful if you have an opt-out or unsubscribe list so you won't be emailing students who you know do not want to hear from you.
- Unlimited lists can be uploaded here (and will be saved for later use).

3. Student School Choice

- Target your competitor set right here! Send content directly to students who have expressed interest in your competitor schools. (Minimum number of schools to target: 3)

The screenshot shows a targeting configuration interface with several sections highlighted by red boxes and numbered 1, 2, and 3:

- 1. A red box highlights the "New Prospects Only?" section, which includes a dropdown menu currently set to "Yes" and a note that says "exclude recipients of other outreaches".
- 2. A red box highlights the "Suppression Lists" section, which contains an "Upload Suppression File" button and a "Choose File" button.
- 3. A red box highlights the "Student School Choice" section, which includes a dropdown menu currently set to "Nothing selected" and a note that says "0 selected".

At the bottom of the interface, there is a blue banner that reads "Outreach sending will be paused. Save & Preview to review your outreach before enabling sending." and buttons for "Cancel" and "Save & Preview".

Targeting: Students vs. Parents

CollegeXpress is able to collect parent data when a student registers with us. Our registration asks the student to input their parent's email address (as a non-required field).

When targeting parents for your outreaches, please keep the following in mind:

- Not all students in our database provide parent email addresses. Therefore, there is a much smaller subset of parent emails compared to students.
- By selecting "Parents" as the recipient of your email, you are targeting based on the student data we have but are emailing the parent of that student.
- If a parent is interested in learning more about your institution from your outreach, the data you receive in your daily/weekly files will be the entire student record plus the parent email address. There will not be any additional parent information provided.

The screenshot shows a "Targeting" interface. At the top, there is a header "Targeting" and a light blue box with a question mark icon and the text: "Define your target audience for this outreach and click Count button to see number of matches for specified criteria." Below this is a "Recipients" dropdown menu with a blue border and a red box around it. The dropdown is open, showing three options: "Students", "Students", and "Parents". The "Parents" option is highlighted in blue. Below the dropdown are "min" and "max" input fields, with a "to" label between them. A note below the fields reads: "to target a single grad year, enter the same year in both min and max fields". To the right of the dropdown, there are partially visible "Student" labels and checkboxes.

Mail Content: Build Your Email

Where your email comes to life in real time. Add images, format content, and push prospects to your website.

Steps to building your email:

1. Add your subject line
2. Upload images
 - a. Two images are required to be added to this email (banner and inline) template. Upload your own images or use our stock library to populate those areas. Be creative and show off your school's personality! As you upload images, we will store them for you to use on future outreaches.
 - b. As you upload images, you'll see them populate on the preview to the right.
3. What's your message?
 - a. Type your email here. You can also add in some basic formatting: bolding, italicizing, and lists. Click on the markdown link for instructions. Note: Avoid using any links in this section.
4. The CTA
 - a. Create your own CTA, or leave it blank and our default "This school sounds interesting!" will be used.
 - b. This is the most critical part of your email, as this one button is where we are able to collect student data and send it to you. It's the only spot on the email we can collect this data.
5. Landing Page URL
 - a. Where do you want a prospect to land after clicking the green button? Send them to another RFI form or push them to an academic major page or your athletics site—it's up to you! Once the student makes it to your site, you've officially got them tied to your digital marketing efforts!

The screenshot displays the 'Mail Content' editor interface. At the top, there are three tabs: 'Targeting', 'Mail Content' (highlighted with a red box), and 'Mail Schedule'. Below the tabs, the 'Mailing' section contains fields for 'Name' and 'Subject'. The 'Banner Image' and 'Inline Image' sections each have a 'Select Image' dropdown and an 'Upload' button with a 'Choose File' link. Below these are dimensions: 'W 700, H 115 to 300, < 4.2 MB' for the banner and 'W < 300, < 4.2 MB' for the inline image. The 'Message' section has a text area and a 'markdown' link. The 'Call to Action (CTA)' section has a text area with a default value: 'This school sounds interesting!'. The 'Landing Page URL' section has a text area with a default value: 'https://www.yourfshere.edu'. On the right, the 'Message Preview' shows the email layout with the CollegeExpress logo, a banner area labeled 'YOUR BANNER HERE', a message area, and a CTA button labeled 'This school sounds interesting!'. A green arrow points from the CTA button in the preview to the CTA text area in the editor. At the bottom, there are 'Previous' and 'Next' buttons, and a 'Save & Preview' button.

Quick tips + FAQs

- Why can't I include a URL in the message block?
 - We want to ensure that the student clicks on the green button only and not distract with multiple CTAs; the green button is the only area that our system is able to collect data from and send it to you in your daily or weekly files.
- If a student or parent clicks the green button or "no" button, what happens?
 - If an action is taken on either button, you will not be able to outreach to that individual again through Connect. If the student or parent clicks the green button, you'll receive that data in your daily/weekly files. A "no" button click will be suppressed on our end.
- Do I have to write a CTA or add a URL landing page link?
 - No, you can leave these blank if you want and our defaults (a message with a link to your CX profile) will run instead.
- Can I add UTM codes to the landing page URL?
 - Yes, and we encourage you to do that!

The screenshot displays the 'Mail Content' editor interface. At the top, there are three tabs: 'Targeting', 'Mail Content' (highlighted with a red box), and 'Mail Schedule'. Below the tabs, the 'Mailing' section includes a 'Subject' field, an 'e-mail subject' field, and instructions to 'Select images or upload your own'. There are two image selection areas: 'Banner Image' and 'Inline Image', each with a 'Choose File' button. Below these are dimensions: 'W 700, H 115 to 300, < 4.2 MB' for the banner and 'W <= 300, < 4.2 MB' for the inline image. The 'Message' section contains a text area with a 'markdown accepted' note. Below the message is a 'Call to Action (CTA)' field with a 'Choose your own CTA' instruction. The 'Landing Page URL' field has a 'Send an interested prospect to a designated landing page' instruction. The 'Message Preview' on the right shows a sample email with the 'collegexpress' logo, a banner area, a 'First Name' field, a paragraph of text, a 'YOUR INLINE HERE' box, and a green button that says 'This school sounds interesting!'. Below the button are two options: 'I'd like to connect and receive more information about DePaul University' and 'I'm not interested in this school'. At the bottom, there are 'Previous' and 'Next' buttons, a 'Save & Preview' button, and a 'Cancel' button.

Daily/Weekly File Delivery

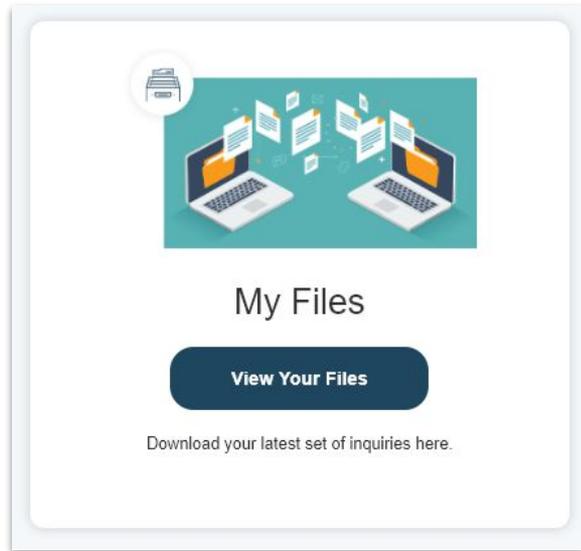

Your CollegeXpress Connect names are set to flow directly into your daily/weekly files you're already receiving!

How to find them in your files:

1. If you see an "Issue Date" in Column B of your file, the code for this will be "552121"
2. If you see an "Edition" in Column B of your file, the code for this will be "CX Connect"

In both cases, this means the student or parent attached to that code expressed interest in your institution via the CollegeXpress Connect service (one of your outreaches).

Where can you access your files? You may be getting your data via automatic upload in Slate, or you may be receiving emails notifying you that your leads are ready to download. In either circumstance, you can access your leads on the "My Files" card on your main dashboard.
